Global Responsibility: Finding German-American Solutions to International Problems

Conference Center at Carnegie Endowment for International Peace, Choate Room, 1779 Massachusetts Ave NW, Washington, DC

Tuesday, April 10, 2018

Agenda

The AICGS project “A German-American Dialogue of the Next Generation: Global Responsibility, Joint Engagement” engages young Americans and Germans in discussions of current issues of concern for the transatlantic relationship. The project participants are young leaders in a variety of fields who have been working together for several months in three groups representing the AICGS Program Areas (Foreign and Domestic Policy; Society, Culture, and Politics; and Geoeconomics) with the intent to frame and deliberate on the issues and create solutions to a variety of global challenges facing the United States and Germany. This conference highlights the results of the participants’ work.
